

Criteria for Affiliated Donor Recruitment Groups

1.0 General

- The group shall have status as a non-profit organization.
- The group shall be experienced in recruitment activities, such as donor education, donor counseling, medical evaluation, and confidentiality issues.
- The group shall agree to use only consent and donor education materials and procedures developed by CRIR in compliance with all applicable national and international regulations and recommendations.
- The group shall have adequate professional and general liability insurance.

2.0 Adequate Staffing

- The group must have a designated coordinator of services and adequate trained staff to assume volume and variety of services required of donor recruitment.
- The group shall have access to a medical advisor.

3.0 Data Management

- The group shall submit to CRIR all completed donor consent and recruitment forms within seven business days of donor recruitment.

4.0 Written Standards

- The group shall adhere to CRIR's written standards for every aspect of volunteer donor recruitment.
- The group shall maintain and make available complete standard operating procedures upon request.